

CARNIVAL FIVE ETCHINGS

BY HAROLD BUDD HEAVENLY MONKEY MMIX

Heavenly Monkey is pleased to issue Harold Budd's debut work in fine printmaking, a series of five etchings that continue his exploration of the potential for improvisation in his distinctive "arabesque" drawings.

Over the past four decades Harold has established an international reputation as one of America's most influential composers and musicians. The addition of copper-plate engraving to his artistic pursuits was borne as a result of his recently published poetry collection, Colorful Fortune (issued in both limited edition and trade paperback formats). Seeing the pencil drawings reproduced as relief prints in that book, Vancouver-based master printer Peter Braune thought the arabesques' detail and fine lines made them perfectly suited for intaglio printing. Harold, who is open to all new creative opportunities, was game to play.

He engraved the plate and returned it to Vancouver, where it was etched and printed by Braune, and judged a success by all involved. The idea of doing more was proposed, and Harold's enthusiasm continued. He completed four more plates (all uniform in size, about 4 inches square), which were sent back to Vancouver, etched and printed in editions of 15 on sheets of vintage Barcham Green Penshurst handmade paper (10.75 x 11.5 inches).

Numbers 1-10 of each etching are collected as a suite, issued in a printed Rives paper chemise, slipped into a black cloth-covered slipcase. A title label, printed on gampi proofs of the etchings, is laid on to the front board. The suites also include a title page and descriptive colophon, the text set by hand in Perpetua and printed on dampened Penshurst letterpress at Heavenly Monkey. All of the prints are editioned, titled and signed by Harold, who also signed the descriptive colophon included with the suites.

Individual etchings are priced at US$225. The suite, containing all five etchings, the title sheet and a colophon signed by Harold and numbered to match the prints, is priced at US$1,250.

Orders for the suite received before September 1st, 2009 will receive a 20% price discount. Contact us at HM@heavenlymonkey.com for more details about Carnival or Harold's limited edition book Colorful Fortune.
